MANCHUS SLAUGHTER CHINESE OF NANKIN

AWFUL WORK OF IMPERIALIST
SOLDIERS UNPARALLELED
IN MODERN HISTORY

SLAY MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Streets Run Blood, and Fire Over a Large Area Completes Terrible Destruction.

Nankin, Nov. 11.—The imperial troops descended upon innocent Chinese of this city and before their awful work was done thousands had been murdered and their bodies left to lie in the city's streets.

Every person suspected of having revolutionary tendencies was killed. The Manchus soldiers did not stop with the killing of men who wore no queues. They slew women and children as they ran terror stricken through the streets.

Thousands managed to escape from the city and to find refuge behind the lines of the rebels who are gathered about the city in numbers larger than those within, but ineffective against the imperialists because of the lack of ammunition.

It is impossible to estimate the number of killed. Literally the streets of Nankin ran blood and the day will go down in history as one blacker than any of modern times.

The murders were followed by fires as the emptied houses of the dead were pillaged, and soon a large section of the native city had been burned.

With all the killing of the Chinese not a foreigner is known to have suffered at the hands of the soldiers.

REV. FISHER HAS CALL TO OKLAHOMA

WILL GIVE HIS DECISION AT THE MORNING SERVICE
TOMORROW.

Rev. S. Elwood Fisher, pastor of the local Christian church, has received a call from the Christian church at Blackwell, Okla., at an increase in salary. This church has 600 members and is a tempting proposition for the Dixon minister, who spent several weeks in Oklahoma recently and conducted meetings and is acquainted with conditions there.

Mr. Fisher has not fully decided what he will do with the offer, but will give his decision at the morning service tomorrow. The members of his church and other friends in the city hope he will decide to remain in Dixon, for he is doing a good work here and is liked by all. The officers of the church would like to have a good attendance of the members at the morning service, when the matter will come up.

The judge also allowed the motion to set aside the judgment in the case of the Union State bank vs. David, John and J. B. Ortgiesen, which motion was argued yesterday, after which court adjourned until 1 p. m., Monday.

GROWTH OF Y. M. C. A. VERY ENCOURAGING

PRESENT MEMBERSHIP IS OVER
THREE HUNDRED AND STILL GROWING.

CHANGES MADE AT BUILDING

Entertainment Course Paying—Bowling Teams Preparing for a Tournament.

The growth of the Y. M. C. A. during the past month and the encouraging prospects for the association were shown last evening in the reports of the executive force made to the board of directors at their meeting, which was held at the home of Sec. and Mrs. Bailey, following a social gathering.

Secretary Bailey's report shows that the membership has increased from 216 on Sept. 30 to 308 on Oct. 31, the last figure not including 28 ladies who are members of the association. During October there were 36 expirations of membership, of which over 75 per cent were renewed. There were 81 out of town visitors at the building during the month, these being from 12 different states. Of the 81 visitors 31 were shown about the building. As high as 268 people visited the building in one day.

Course Is Successful.

The religious work committee reports active work in their line with pleasant results and the education committee pleased the board with their report which shows that the financial success of the entertainment course now under way, is assured. 450 course tickets having been sold. A small profit will be added to the association treasury as a result of the course.

Mr. Bailey reports that five young men had had personal conferences with him during the month, two of whom had signified their intention of joining some church as a result of the talks. The association assisted in 10 different church services during the month. The financial condition of the association is also very satisfactory.

Order New Games.

The board last night authorized the purchase of a table croquet outfit, to consist of a handsome table, four balls and four cues. The game is simply croquet on a table and is said to be very popular in the associations where installed. A charge of two cents per game is to be made to pay for the table and its maintenance, and the amount for the first payment on the table was provided by the board, each member taking enough tickets to make up the necessary installment. The table was ordered today and will probably arrive within ten days or two weeks.

New bowling pins and balls were also ordered by the board and it was decided to refinish the alleys before the bowling tournament begins, when 200 men have been enrolled. Half of the number have already signified their intention of competing in the tournament, in which several valuable prizes have been offered. Arrangements have also been made for a bowling contest of four games with Sterling, two to be played in each of the cities. New basket and medicine balls will also be ordered.

Rearrangement of Rooms.

A change, which will doubtless be very popular, has been made in the arrangement of the rooms at the association building. The reading room has been moved forward into the front lobby, the parlor now being located in the closed room. The change will do much to enhance the popularity of the reading tables.

There will be no men's meeting on Sunday afternoon, it having been deemed necessary to postpone the meeting for one week. However, the young men's bible class will be organized Sunday at 3:30 o'clock.

FIXING PREMIUMS FOR POULTRY SHOW

DIXON ASSOCIATION IS VERY LIBERAL WITH THE EXHIBITORS.

That the 1912 show of the Dixon Poultry association, to be held at Rosbrook hall Jan. 22-27, shall be the biggest ever held by the association and as large as any in this vicinity is the aim of the members of the association, who held a very enthusiastic meeting at Youngman's coal office last evening, at which many plans for the coming affair were made.

It was decided to give a silver trophy cup in all classes, and to divide the premiums 40 and 30 per cents. Four ribbons will also be given in each class. The entry fee for single birds will be raised this year, as it has always been much lower here has been lower here than anywhere in this vicinity. Hereafter the entry fee for a single chicken will be 35 cents instead of 25, the new fee being the same as at Polo. Rockford charges 50 cents per bird. The pen entry will remain at the same figure, $1.

A committee was appointed last evening to solicit for the special premiums which are necessary to make the show a success and get out of town exhibitors. The committee will be Tim Sullivan, Harry Stephan, Jas. Ballou, J. U. Weyant, Geo. Coakley, Joe Rosebaugh, S. W. Youngman and Frank Valle. The judge at the coming show will be C. H. Rhodes of Topeka, Kas., one of the most famous Rock men in the country.

COURT WILL OPEN NEW YEARS DAY

HAVE JURY NOT REPORT

While in Dixon Friday on matters pertaining to the Webster murder case, Sheriff Delaney of Ogle county called on Judge R. S. Farrand, who will preside at the January term of the Ogle county circuit court, to arrange for calling the grand jury on Tuesday of the first week of the term instead of on Monday.

Monday, which will be the first day of the term, and when the law requires court shall be opened, is New Years, consequently the grand jury will not be summoned until Tuesday. However, Judge Farrand will open court on Monday and adjourn until Tuesday.

HAD CLOSE GAME OF

INDOOR BASEBALL

The indoor baseball game between the business and young men's teams at the Y. gymnasium last evening was one of the most exciting of the season and furnished some excellent amusement for the good crowd of spectators. The business men took the lead at first, scoring 3 runs to the young fellows' 1, and then weakened before a determined rally of the young men, after which the score stood 10 to 3, with the business men on the short end. However, the older men kept plugging away and managed to pull the game out of the fire, the final score being: Business men, 14; young men, 13.

STATES ATTY. EDWARDS

States Attorney Edwards, though he has been a witness in hundreds, more or less, of cases, received his first fee for being a witness this morning when he put his name to the marriage certificate of Charles E. Beck of Chicago and Mrs. Effa Hope Raymond of Weldon, who were married by Justice Hanniken. The happy husband, it is said, reached for his pocket book when the handsome bachelor started to proceed with the usual custom of kissing the bride. Nor would he let the justice assume that privilege either. Max Beck, a brother of the groom, was the other

HEAVY PLANK FELL

FRED BUNNELL AND A. L. CARR
HURT AT WIRE SCREEN
FACTORY.

WIND BLEW THE PLANK DOWN

One Was Struck on Side of the Head
and the Other Had Back Injured.

Fred Bunnell and A. L. Carr were painfully hurt at the Reynolds wire screen factory at about 11 o'clock this morning when a heavy plank was blown down on them. They were working for the Simpson Construction company, building the addition to the factory. They were on the roof of the building and directly under a heavy plank runway, about 12 feet above the roof, through which the mixed concrete runs to the dumping carts. The high wind blew one of the heavy planks from its support and it fell on the two men.

Bunnell received a glancing blow on the side of the head, a bad rash being inflicted and a slight concussion of the brain resulting. Carr was struck across the back and on the left side, the ligaments of the left arm being torn and his back wrenched to such an extent that he will be unable to work for some time. Fortunately neither of the men was seriously injured.

WILL SECURE ESTIMATE ON VAL-UE OF WATERWORKS
PLANT.

BASIS FOR NEW FRANCHISE

City Not Financially Able to Purchase Water Plant But Wants Information.

Freeport, Ill., Nov. 11.—Special to the Telegraph.—Although the financial condition of Freeport is such as to preclude any possibility of the city purchasing the waterworks, appraisers have been selected to make a thorough estimate of the value of the plant, which appraisement is to be used in the framing of a new franchise to the company.

This action was decided on at a special meeting of the city council held Thursday night, and the three men who are to come to this city and make the appraisement are:

E. E. Turneure, Dean of the Engineering Department, University of Wisconsin, Madison.

H. E. Riggs, Toledo, O.

John W. Alvord, Chicago.

Nine Appraisers Named.

The names of nine appraisers were presented by the committee of ten in charge of the work, and all had secured from many sources, including the universities of Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Chicago, Iowa, the Harris Trust & Savings Co. of Chicago, F. G. Gardner, Chicago Title & Trust Co., A. B. Leach & Co., Chicago, Lee Higginson & Co., Chicago, Munn & Co., Publishers of the Scientific American, H. M. Hyde, editor of the Technical World Magazine, and the city clerk of Omaha.

However, the selection narrowed down to the following, who asked the respective amounts for their services:

E. E. Turneure, Madison, Wis., $1,000.

H. E. Riggs, Toledo, O., $1,000.

J. W. Alvord Chicago, $1,200.

Arnold C. Koenig, Omaha, $50 per day.

Coates & Burchard, Chicago, $20 per day for each man employed.

D. W. Gwinn, Chicago, $50 per day.

Calls Evans a Joke.

A real argument was started when Alderman Winters wanted to know why the appraisal of Evans, made under the Rawleigh administration, was not a good appraisal. At this remark Mayor Dittmar branded Evans as an incompetent and said that Mr. Turneure of Madison, an appraiser considered by the council, branded Evans as a joke.

Stahl Defends Evans.

Alderman Stahl replied that he had personally investigated the record of Evans and found that Evans had appraised over 11,000 water plants, passed on $250,000,000 in bonds, has had 30 years' experience and has the recommendation of over 50 of the very best business people of Chicago.

Weakly Women

are likely to find life and its duties a burden. To be tied down to the house day in and day out may turn even home into a prison! Women require a little change.

However some people think poor health is Fate's decree! At any rate to see others blithe and buoyant doing and going while they suffer, certainly points that way!

But, be that as it may Fate loses his power when Understanding comes to dwell with us. That you may enjoy life as others do, a few moments of my time are yours freely.

CASCARETS INSURES INSIDE CLEANLINESS

Ten Millions of Cascaret Users Never Have Headache, Constipation, Billiousness or Sick Stomach.

It is more necessary that you keep your Bowels, Liver and Stomach clean, pure and fresh than it is to keep the sewers and drainage of a large city free from obstruction.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage way every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the decomposed waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

No odds how badly and upset you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your entire family feeling good, for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing too.

Dramatic Notes

SPECIAL BILL AT FAMILY.

Levere and Palmer, who appear at the Family theatre the first half of next week, will be welcomed by the lovers of good singing. Miss Palmer is the possessor of a mezzo-soprano voice which she handles to great advantage and Mr. Levere's voice is a high soprano. A few years ago he was called a boy soprano and strange to say, his voice has never changed, but is clear and strong.

They appear in a Grecian sketch called The Garden of Dreams, with special scenery and costumes.

FAMILY THEATRE

Many people have found that one of the pleasantest and most profitable ways to bring delight to their friends is to take them for a visit to the Family theatre and theatre parties are almost a highly occurrence there. The unfailing courtesy of all concerned with the house adds greatly to the pleasure of a visit to this theatre.

The best in vaudeville will always be found at the Family. The last half of this week Hap Hazard & Co., the original soap bubble manipulators, are giving an act which is unique. Large, brilliant soap bubbles are made to do unexpected things, a big bubble filled with smoke is divided into two and again made into one without losing any of the smoke, and many other tricks are performed. Reiff Bros & Clayton give a singing and dancing act which introduces many new steps and is an attractive feature. New pictures are shown every night, and they are always good.

DIXON OPERA HOUSE

"The Fortune Hunter"

By the grace of Colman and Harris, who have many times in the past provided us with palatable amusement, we are at last to be given an opportunity of seeing Winchell Smith's widely announced comedy, "The Fortune Hunter," which will be the attraction at the Opera House on Thursday evening, Nov. 16th.

Theatre goers have waited anxiously for the coming of this rich comedy which has been acclaimed the best that has been presented on the American stage during the past decade, and the fact that we are to get the original company and production, is the cause of much satisfaction among all of those who are anxious to see it. That The Fortune

Hunter will get a rousing reception goes without saying.

It is a play that has received the endorsement of press and public and is spoken of highly by many ministers from their pulpits.

Seat sale open Monday morning, Nov. 13th at Campbell's Drug Store. Prices, 50 and 75 cents, and $1.00, and $1.50.

PRINCESS THEATRE.

Don't forget Monday night, Nov. 13, for you will see the finest pictures ever shown in Dixon. You will see two reels of pictures that cost the Stala Film company $30,000 to produce for the sum of five cents. The reels are entitled The Fall of Troy. It is a reproduction of the Trojan war which all have read of in history. 2,000 armed gladiators engage in deadly combat; beautiful women, dashing chariots, artistic statuary, massive palaces and more of which we have not space to write. You will also see a good western picture. Tonight and tomorrow night's films are entitled, As a Boy Dreams; The Cross; Indian Legend; The Foundling; Grant to Lincoln, and Rector's Inheritance.

THE WHITNEY.

One of the most interesting attractions to come to us this year will be the original company from Chicago in Henry Seton Merriman's great play, "With Gilt Edged Tools." This is the all-star company that made such a sensation here by their splendid acting. The Record Herald says of them: "No half-a-dozen examples of finer acting have been seen in Chicago than that submitted by the company of players at the Whitney opera house." The Inter Ocean says: "This unheralded group take the season's honors." The whole beautiful production is carried complete. The company is comprised, among others, of Hamilton Deane, Stanley Bodwell, Richard Hicks, Marie Leonard, Marguerite Collier and Campbell Goldsmith. The Human Heart

The heart is a wonderful double pump, through the action of which the blood stream is kept sweeping round and round through the body at the rate of seven miles an hour. "Remember this, that our bodies will not stand the strain of over-work without good, pure blood any more than the engine can run smoothly without oil." After many years of study in the active practice of medicine, Dr. R. V. Pierce found that when the stomach was out of order, the blood impure and there were symptoms of general breakdown, a tonic made of the glyceric extract of certain roots was the best corrective. This he called

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

Being made without alcohol, this "Medical Discovery" helps the stomach to assimilate the food, thereby curing dyspepsia. It is especially adapted to diseases attended with excessive tissue waste, notably in convalescence from various fevers, for thin-blooded people and those who are always "catching cold."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps for the French cloth-bound book of 1008 pages. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Famous Rayo Lamp

The best part of the day is the evening, when the whole family is gathered together around the lamp.

The old days of the smoky fireplace and flickering candle are gone forever. In their place have come the convenient oil stove and the indispensable Rayo Lamp.

There are no-draw, in the United States alone, more than 3,000,000 of these Rayo lamps, giving their clear, white light to more than 3,000,000 homes.

Other lamps cost more, but you cannot get a better light than the low-priced Rayo gives. It has become so popular we may almost call it "the official lamp of the American family."

The Rayo is made of solid brass, with handsome nickel finish—an ornament anywhere.

NO BETTER WAY TO BREAK A BAD COLD

MOST SEVERE COLD OR THE GRIPPE RELIEVED IN SEVERAL HOURS

The most effective and harmless way to cure the Grippe or break a severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs, is a dose of Pope's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

You will distinctly feel the cold breaking and all grippé symptoms going after the very first dose. It promptly relieves the most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic aching. Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad-after effects, as a 25-cent package of Pope's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

After three years' research we have conclusively demonstrated that quinine is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

'ECZEMA ITCHED SO I COULDN'T STAND IT'

Began by Little Pimples. Scratched Until Blood Came. Kept Getting Worse. Could Not Sleep Nights. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and the First Day They Relieved Itching. In 3 Weeks Eczema Cured.

"I suffered with eczema on my neck for about six months, beginning by little pimples breaking out. I kept scratching till the blood came. It kept getting worse. I couldn't sleep nights any more. It kept itching for about a month, then I went to a doctor and got some liquid to take. It seemed as if I was going to get better. The itching stopped for about three days, but when it started again, was even worse than before. The eczema spread so badly I couldn't stand it any more. I went to a doctor and he gave me some medicine, but didn't do any good. We have been having Cuticura Remedies in the house, so I decided to try them. I had been using Cuticura soap, so I cut a box of Cuticura Ointment, and washed off the affected part with Cuticura soap three times a day, and then put the Cuticura ointment on. The first day I put it on, it relieved me of itching so I could sleep all that night. It took about a week, then I could see the eczema coming off. I kept the treatment up for three weeks, and my eczema was cured."

"My brother got his face burned with gunpowder, and he used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The people all thought he would have scars, but you can't see them. He cut his face burned. It was simply awful to look at before the Cuticura Remedies (Soap and Ointment) cured it." (Signed) Mrs. Elizabeth Guilford, Forrest City, Ark., Oct. 16, 1910.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet on the skin and hair, will be sent, post-free, on application to Pottery Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 174, Boston.

"I can't marry you," she said. "I like you a great deal, but—"

He waited a moment for her to complete the sentence, falling which, he went on himself.

"I haven't an exaggerated opinion of myself, so I know I ain't bragging when I say I'll make a pretty good husband. You could follow your own sweet will, and nothing would be too good for you. I'd give you everything your heart desired—"

"Except yourself," she interrupted suddenly, almost sharply. "Don't you see?" she hurried on. "I could have far easier married the Elam Harnish fresh from Klondike when I first laid eyes on him long ago, than marry you sitting before me now."

He shook his head slowly.

"That's one too many for me. The more you know and like a man the less you want to marry him. Familiarity breeds contempt—I guess that's what you mean."

"No, no," she cried, but before she could continue, a knock came on the door.

His eyes, quick with observation like an Indian's, darted about the room while she was out. The impression of warmth and comfort and beauty predominated, though he was unable to analyze it; while the simplicity delighted him—expensive simplicity, he decided, and most of it left-overs from the time her father went broke and died.

She re-entered the room, and as she crossed it to her chair, he admired the way she walked, while the bronze slippers were maddening.

"I'd like to ask you several questions," he began immediately. "Are you thinking of marrying somebody else?"

"There isn't anybody else. I don't know anybody I like well enough to marry. For that matter, I don't think I am a marrying woman. Office work seems to spoil me for that."

"It strikes me that you're the most marryingest woman that ever made a man sit up and take notice. And now another question. You see, I've just got to locate the lay of the land. Is there anybody you like as much as you like me?"

But Dede had herself well in hand. "That's unfair," she said. "And if you stop and consider, you will find that you are doing the very thing you disclaimed—namely, nagging. I refuse to answer any more of your questions. Let us talk about other things. How is Bob?"

Half an hour later, whirling along through the rain on Telegraph Avenue toward Oakland, Daylight smoked one of his brown-paper cigarettes and reviewed what had taken place. It was not at all bad, was his summing up, though there was much about it that was baffling. There was that liking him the more she knew him and at the same time wanting to marry him less. That was a puzzle.

Once again, on a rainy Sunday, weeks afterward, Daylight proposed to Dede. As on the first time, he restrained himself until his hunger for her overwhelmed him and swept him away in his red automobile to Berkeley. He left the machine several blocks away and proceeded to the house on foot. But Dede was out, the landlady's daughter told him, and added, on second thought, that she was walking in the hills. Furthermore, the young lady directed him where Dede's walk was most likely to extend. Daylight obeyed the girl's instructions, and soon the street he followed passed the last house and itself ceased where began the first steep slopes of the open hills. The air was damp with the on-coming of rain, for the storm had not yet burst, though panic there was not an item of work waiting to be done. He dropped into Hegan's private office, before leaving, for a chat, and as he stood up to go, he said:—

"Hegan, we're all hunkadory. We're pulling out of the financial pawnshop in fine shape, and we'll get out without leaving one unredeemed pledge behind. The worst is over, and the end is in sight. Just tight rein for a couple more weeks, just a bit of a pinch or a flurry or so now and then, and we can let go and spit on our hands."

For once he varied his programme. Instead of going directly to his hotel, he started on a round of the bars and cafes, drinking a cocktail here and a cocktail there, and two or three when he encountered men he knew. It was after an hour or so of this that he dropped into the bar of the Pantheon for one last drink before going to dinner. By this time all his being was pleasantly warmed by the alcohol, and he was in the most genial and best of spirits. At the corner of the bar several young men were up to the old trick of resting their elbows and attempting to force each other's hands down. One broad-shouldered young giant never removed his elbow, but put down every hand that came against him. Daylight was interested.

"It's Slosson," the bartender told him, in answer to his query. "He's the heavy-hammer thrower at the U.

"We're Pulling Out of the Financial Pawnshop in Fine Shape."

C. Broke all records this year, and the world's record on top of it. He's a husky all right all right."

Daylight nodded and went over to him, placing his own arm in opposition.

"I'd like to go you a flutter, son, on that proposition," he said.

The young man laughed and locked hands with him; and to Daylight's astonishment it was his own hand that was forced down on the bar.

"Hold on," he muttered. "Just one more flutter. I reckon I wasn't just ready that time."

Again the hands locked. It happened quickly. The offensive attack of Daylight's muscles slipped instantly into defence, and, resisting vainly, his hand was forced over and down. Daylight was dazed. It had been no trick. The skill was equal, or, if anything, the superior skill had been his.

Strength, sheer strength, had done it. He called for the drinks, and, still dazed and pondering, held up his own arm and looked at it as at some new strange thing. He did not know this arm. It certainly was not the arm he had carried around with him all the years. The old arm? Why, it would have been play to turn down that young husky's. But this arm—he continued to look at it with such dubious perplexity as to bring a roar of laughter from the young men.

This laughter aroused him. He joined in it at first, and then his face slowly grew grave. He leaned toward the hammer-thrower.

"Son," he said, "let me whisper a secret. Get out of here and quit drinking before you begin."

The young fellow flushed angrily, but Daylight held steadily on.

"You listen to your dad, and let him say a few. I'm a young man myself, only I ain't. Let me tell you, several years ago for me to turn your hand down would have been like committing assault and battery on a kindergarten."

Slosson looked his incredulity, while the others grinned and clustered around Daylight encouragingly.

"Son, I ain't given to preaching. This is the first time I ever come to the penitent form, and you put me there yourself—hard. I've seen a few in my time, and I ain't fastidious so as you can notice it. But let me tell you right now that I'm worth the devil alone knows how many millions, and that I'd sure give it all, right here on the bar, to turn down your hand. Which means I'd give the whole shooting match just to be back where I was before I quit sleeping under the stars and come into the hen-coops of cities to drink cocktails and lift up my feet and ride. Son, that's what's the matter with me, and that's the way I feel about it. The game ain't worth the candle. You just take care of yourself, and roll my advice over once in a while. Good night."

He turned and lurched out of the place, the moral effect of his utterance largely spoiled by the fact that he was so patently full while he uttered it.

Still in a daze, Daylight made to his hotel, accomplished his dinner, and prepared for bed.

"The damned young whippersnapper!" he muttered. "Put my hand down easy as you please. My hand!"

He held up the offending member an open-air man. Why, I've got the prettiest little ranch you ever laid eyes on up in Glen Ellen. That's where I got stuck for the brick-yard. You recollect handling the correspondence. I only laid eyes on the ranch that one time, and I so fell in love with it that I bought it there and then. I just rode around the hills, and was happy as a kid out of school. I'd be a better man living in the country. The city doesn't make me better. You're plumb right there. I know it. But suppose your prayer should be answered and I'd go clean broke and have to work for day's wages? Suppose I had nothing left but that little ranch, and was satisfied to grow a few chickens and scratch a living somehow—would you marry me then, Dede?"

"Why, we'd be together all the time!" she cried.

Then was the moment, among the trees, ere they began the descent of the hill, that Daylight might have drawn her closely to him and kissed her once. But he was too perplexed with the new thoughts she had put into his head to take advantage of the situation. He merely caught her by the arm and helped her over the rougher footing. At the edge of the grove he suggested that it might be better for them to part there, but she insisted that he accompany her as far as the house.

"Do you know," he said, "taking it by and large, it's the happiest day of my life. Dede, Dede, we've just got to get married. It's the only way, and trust to luck for it's coming out all right."

But the tears were threatening to rise in her eyes again, as she shook her head and turned and went up the steps.

CHAPTER XVIII.

When the ferry system began to run, and the time between Oakland and San Francisco was demonstrated to be cut in half, the tide of Daylight's terrific expenditure started to turn. Not that it really did turn, for he promptly went into further investments. Thousands of lots in his residence tracts were sold, and thousands of homes were being built. Factory sites also were selling, and business properties in the heart of Oakland. All this tended to a steady appreciation in the value of Daylight's huge holdings. But, as of old, he had his hunch and was riding it. Already he had begun borrowing from the banks. The magnificent profits he made on the land he sold were turned into more land, into more development; and instead of paying off old loans, he contracted new ones. As he had pyramided in Dawson City, he now pyramided in Oakland; but he did it with the knowledge that it was a stable enterprise rather than a risky placer-mining boom.

Work on Daylight's dock system went on apace; yet it was one of those enterprises that consumed money dreadfully and that could not be accomplished as quickly as a ferry system. Not content with manufacturing electricity for his street railways in the old-fashioned way, in power-houses, Daylight organized the Sierra and Salvador Power Company. This immediately assumed large proportions. Crossing the San Joaquin Valley on the way from the mountains, and plunging through the Contra Costa hills, there were many towns, and even a robust city, that could be supplied with power, also with light; and it became a street-and-house-lighting project as well. As soon as the purchase of power sites in the Sierras was rushed through, the survey parties were out and building operations begun. And so it went. There were a thousand maws into which he poured unceasing streams of money.

In the spring of the year the Great Panic came on. The first warning was when the banks began calling in their unprotected loans. Daylight promptly paid the first of several of his personal notes that were presented.

His Arms Went About Her and Held Her Closely.

ed; then he divined that these demands but indicated the way the wind was going to blow, and that one of those terrific financial storms he had heard about was soon to sweep over the United States. How terrific this particular storm was to be he did not anticipate. Nevertheless, he took every precaution in his power and had no anxiety about his weathering it out.

And in the end, when early summer was on, everything began to mend. Came a day when Daylight did the unprecedented. He left the office an hour earlier than usual, and for the reason that for the first time since the

"In there," he said. "No other place would suit."

As the door closed, his arms went out and around her. Then he stood with his hands on her shoulders and looking down into her face.

"Dede, if I tell you, flat and straight, that I'm going up to live on that ranch at Glen Ellen, that I ain't taking a cent with me, that I'm going to scratch for every bite I eat, and that I ain't going to play any card at the business game again, will you come along with me?"

She gave a glad little cry, and he nestled her in closely. But the next moment she had thrust herself out from him to the old position at arm's length.

"How is this possible? How can you leave your business? Has anything happened?"

"No, nothing's happened yet, but it's going to, blame quick. I've taken your preaching to heart, and I've come to the penitent form. I've taken my last drink. You're marrying a whisky-soak, but your husband won't be that. He's going to grow into another man so quick you won't know him. A couple of months from now, up there in Glen Ellen, you'll wake up some morning and find you've got a perfect stranger in the house with you, and you'll have to get introduced to him all over again. You'll say, 'I'm Mrs. Harnish, who are you?' And I'll say, 'I'm Elam Harnish's younger brother. I've just arrived from Alaska to attend the funeral.' 'What funeral?' you'll say. And I'll say, 'Why the funeral of that good-for-nothing, gambling, whisky-drinking Burning Daylight—the man that died of fatty degeneration of the heart from sitting in night and day at the business game.' 'Yes, ma'am, I'll say, 'he's sure a gone 'coon, but I've come to take his place and make you happy. And now, ma'am, if you'll allow me, I'll just meander down to the pasture and milk the cow while you're getting breakfast.'"

"But you haven't answered my questions," she reproached him, as she emerged, rosy and radiant, from the embrace that had accompanied the culmination of his narrative.

"Now just what do you want to know?" he asked.

"I want to know how all this is possible? How you are able to leave your business at a time like this? What you meant by saying that something was going to happen quickly?"

"Now just what do you want to know?" he asked.

IS PLEASED WITH
SACRAMENTO VALLEYC. H. STACKPOLE WRITES FROM COUNTRY WHERE LOCAL PEOPLE INVESTED.

GREAT IRRIGATION PROJECT

Dixon and Morrison Colonies Near Willows, Cal. Are in Fine
Location.The following letter received by Frank Shear from C. H. Stackpole, who is now in California, will interest the many Dixon friends of Mr.
Stackpole, especially those who have invested in Sacramento Valley land:
Willows, Cal., Nov. 3, 1911
Dear Friend:I have had such a call on me
to write to different friends in Dixon
and surrounding country of my impressions and opinion of this section of the country and its possibilities
that I have made up my mind to write you, and if the Telegraph feels
so disposed the same can be published.I have now been in this section of the country over two weeks and each day during that time have been traveling, either by buggy, wagon or auto over the Sacramento Valley Irrigation company's project in all directions, covering probably 600 miles in my trips. This project is in the neighborhood of 16 miles wide by 38
miles in length, and the immensity
of this undertaking must be seen to be comprehended. This company has,
by special act of congress, tapped the Sacramento river, with headgates at Hamilton City, thereby securing sufficient water to irrigate their entire project of 250,000 acres. At the head-gates the intake is over 100 feet wide
by 18 feet deep and from this supply
laterals branch off, as the work progresses southward. The water is carried on a level with the surface of the land to be watered by drawing
he earth from each side, leaving a trench in the center. Along these trenches gates are placed, allowing the water to be distributed.Drains have been placed throughout the project to take care of excess water. The company has expended $7,000,000 up to the present
time and has but fairly got started.
Within the year approximately 30,
000 acres have been sold.Hundreds of settlers have arrived
this summer and fall and are on the lands and have built, and thousands of acres are being prepared for future occupancy. Settlers are arriving daily and next spring will see a great influx of settlers in this valley. The possibilities of this valley are beyond comprehension. I have seen everything growing here that I have seen in Southern California. The other day I visited a commercial orange orchard at Calusa, 31 miles from Willows, as beautiful a sight as one could wish to see, fruit just ripening
and ready for market December 1st.
The streets are lined with orange lemon, palm and a great variety of trees. The oleander is 12 to 14 feet high and roses and flowers of all varieties are in bloom where water has been applied. The town of Willow has all this, scattered here and there
and all are now awake and each one
trying to surpass the other in beautifying the town. The town has nearly 4,000 inhabitants—has doubled
within the past year. Over $300,000
has been expended in public improvements since the opening of spring.
At present there are fully 100 residences under construction, some costing as high as $17,000.The Morrison and Dixon colonies have about 1,200 acres of land together—nothing finer to be found throughout the project. Since the purchase of this land a steam road
has been staked about a mile east of our lands and it is to be completed
by September next; also three electric road surveys have been run, one
close to our lands, all of which enhance the value. A person coming here should have some money, as it will take both time and money to develop the land. There is no question
but that anything grown in California can be grown here. It is being grown now. All it requires is labor and water—the sunshine and climate will do the rest.I am living in a tent. As I write, I am in my shirt sleeves, with all the windows and doors open. Very pleasant, cool evenings. Have had two light showers in the past month. The rainy season begins about January 1st.Very truly yours,
C. H. STACKPOLE.NORTH DIXON SCHOOL NOTES
TERMS OF EDUCATIONAL INTERESTMiss Myrtle Honey of the class of 1911, N. D. H. S., takes the position
on Monday next of teacher of Dis.
No. 3, Palmyra. Miss Honey will make good in this position as she did in her work as a student. This is the eighth graduate of our high school of the class of 1911 to enter the teaching profession.Miss Nan Hunt spent a half day at the kindergarten this week. She reports that department to be in fine condition. With Miss Hunt's experience in this line, as well as with grade work, we may understand she knows.A good number of visitors—patrons
and parents, are coming to the different divisions of the school to view the work being done. Two of the school board visited during the week thus showing a commendable interest. All are welcome.The exhibit of North Dixon schools in Drawing and Industrial work,
shown at the county superintendent's office during the N. D. Teachers' conference in Dixon, will be shipped next week to Supt. Eastman at Milledgeville and will be on exhibit at the school there. This is by request of Supt. Eastman. All expenses of packing and shipping, together with a fair payment for the use of the exhibit, will be allowed by the Milledgeville school management.One of the things in the present
lay crusade for conservation of resources is the battle against mental inefficiency and mental fatigue. In this the teacher must play an essential part. Here is a field of limitless influence for true educators. Medical inspection and school nursing can do much from the physical standpoint, but waste from intellectual inefficiency and fatigue must be prevented by teachers, school regulators
and expert supervisory assistance of teachers. Save energy, conserve strength, prevent needless mental waste.The love of beauty cannot be incubated too soon in children. First impressions are most lasting and it is surprising how early in life a child will learn to discriminate between
the beautiful and the commonplace.
Many of our children come from
homes where they see no pictures,
no statuary, no beautiful books. Can you estimate the influence for good that spending six hours per day in the company of beautiful books and works of art must have on a child?
There are so many reasons why our school rooms and school grounds
should be beautiful that one wonders why there is a bare wall or an untidy play ground, devoid of flowers, shrubs and beautiful trees. In our land, "It is easier to be good,"
said one little girl, "in a beautiful room." You have heard the story of the little slave girl who for the first time looked upon a beautiful Greek statue. She went away and washed her face. The next day she came again and looked, and went away to comb her hair. And day after day at the beauty and repose of the figure brought into the girl's soul, there was the manifestation of the change
brought within her by her greater gentleness and kindness of spirit.
Yes, when the fight begins within himself.A boy's worth something. God stoops
o'er his head,
Satan looks up between his feet—
both tug—
He's left, I the middle; the soul
wakes and grows.
Prolong that battle through his life.
Never leave growing 'till the world
to come."

About Furnaces.

T. R. F. says: I don't know what to do with my ashes.If you are speaking of your personal ashes we would suggest that you have them put in a nickel urn and placed on top of the plate, but if you mean your furnace ashes the recipe
is as follows: Fill a large pan or pail
with ashes. Then wait until a dark windy night and set the pail of ashes quietly out in the back yard. In the morning your pail will be completely empty and your neighbors for blocks around will have the ashes. Don't mention this to anybody. Only 15 or

HUNTERS SPEND
DAY AFTER QUAILPRAIRIE CHICKEN SEASON OF 6
DAYS OPENS TOMORROW—

COON HUNT TONIGHT

The hunting season, or at least
that part of it that interests local hunters most, opened today, when it became possible to shoot quail. Accordingly the first hunting party of the season, composed of W. J. Mc-Alpine, Blinn Smith and Gus Demarest, went out after quail this morning. Those who have been near the places usually frequented by quail
say there are many of them this year,
and consequently local hunters are anticipating much fun. The prairie chicken season of six days opens tomorrow and a large number of local gun men were planning to hunt them
during the legal term.

"SIMIE" FORGETS

HE HAD A BIRTHDAY

A. E. Simonson admits he is a most absent minded man when he is working. Of course, he makes this admission indirectly. But the facts of the case are that "Simie" fearing a lovers of the sport have arranged for cold wave, and having a short fenceto build worked like a Trojan yesterday, digging post holes. He got all the holes dug, and this morning he came down town to get the posts.
Imagine his surprise then, when, on being told the date, he remembered that yesterday was his birthday. And for a whole year he had been arranging to celebrate. And in his chagrin
over missing the auspicious occasion
he refuses to tell his age. Prizes will be given by his friends for a correct
guess.

Children are Entitled to Underwear Comfort and Fit as Well as Grown-Ups

They get both in Athena Underwear.

Children from ages about two to six are broad in stature in comparison with height, while those from six to sixteen are usually tall and thin.

These facts have heretofore been overlooked in designing children's underwear.

Athena underwear for children is sized by ages—not numbers. Ask for "age two" for a two-year-old child, "age ten" for a ten-year-old child, and so on. This system of sizing insures a proper fit, age for age, and makes it easy for the mother to get garments that fit correctly, without many trips to the store.

For Women

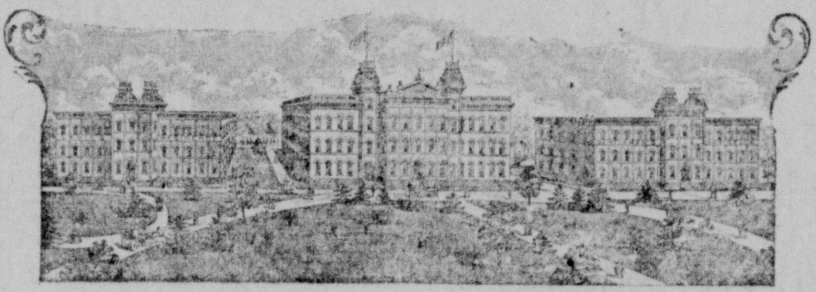

No woman can ever know real comfort in knit underwear until she becomes acquainted with the perfect shaping of Athena underwear. It fits snugly to the figure—does not wrinkle under the corset. It is exquisitely trimmed. In all fabrics, weights and shapes at the price you usually pay.

DEFENDS MR. LORIMER

Blount Declares His Election Not Tainted by Corruption.

Manager for Albert J. Hopkins Thinks Amount of Money in Springfield Has Been Exaggerated.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Fred M. Blount, manager for Senator Albert J. Hopkins in his campaign for re-election, and an officer and director in the banks of the late John R. Walsh, became a champion for Senator Lorimer.

Testifying before the senate committee investigating the election of Senator Lorimer, he stated emphatically his belief that the Lorimer election was not tainted by corruption. He further said that he did not believe there was money at Springfield during the senatorial deadlock of 1909 to advance the interests of any candidate; he denied vigorously the story that he was at Springfield with a bag containing money with which to buy Democratic votes for Ex-Senator Hopkins.

Another witness was Representative John Griffin of Chicago, another Democratic legislator who voted for Lorimer. Representative Henry Terrell of Chicago in his testimony said that Griffin told him there would be $1,000 in it if he voted for Lorimer. Griffin denied having said this to Terrell. He admitted, however, that he solicited votes for Lorimer.

The testimony of James H. Corcoran, former Democratic representative of Rockford, brought up the question whether Emanuel M. Abrahams, former representative, had not refused to act as "bellwether" unless he were paid $5,000, instead of $2,500, previously offered.

RIOTS IN NEW YORK STRIKE

Bricks and Bottles Hurling Upon Workers from Roofs.

New York, Nov. 11.—The strike of the street cleaning department drivers reached serious proportions. There were riots in Harlem, in the upper east side and in the upper west side.

Strikers and sympathizers took to the roofs and hurled bricks and bottles upon men hired by the city to do the work and upon the police guards. Three men were badly hurt, one of whom will die. A dozen others were stunned or cut. On roofs and in the streets the police arrested twenty. The police were jeered and occasionally rushed by the crowds.

ANOTHER PASTOR IS HUNGRY AND RESIGNS

Why do preachers go to work?

This question was brought to the front some days ago when Rev. J. J. Reitz, for twenty-five years pastor of the Allentown Pa., Lutheran church, handed in his resignation, and the happiness voiced by Rev. Henry M. McDowell of Chicago, when found "hustling baggage," for an express company for $75 a month, after his quitting the pulpit of the Woodlawn Park Methodist church, where he received $120.

Rev. McDowell is the third Chicago preacher to abandon the ministry in the last few months. The others are: Rev. C. H. Heywood, formerly pastor of the Wentworth Avenue Baptist church, and Rev. W. F. Bostick, who occupied the pulpit of the Western Avenue Baptist Church.

In every instance financial considerations figure in some way. Dr. Reitz, for instance, told his astonished congregation that he had failed to receive more than one-half his salary each year, and the church owed him $100 for money he advanced in litigation.

He declared the wealthy men of the congregation would agree to church improvements, only when either they or some favored contractor got the contract to do the work.

"You are worse than robbers," he concluded, "for you perform your thievery in the house of the Lord."

Rev. McDowell explained how he could not keep out of debt while engaged in the ministry on a salary of $120 a month, and how he could avoid it as an express agent on $75. The difference is in the cost of keeping up appearances, he said.

"The secret of a happy life," said McDowell, "is a life free from debt, and I had to leave the ministry and accept a salary $50 less per month in order to free myself from the bondage of debt."

The trustees of the church said they were more than satisfied with Rev. McDowell as a pastor and said that they had decided though that pastor could not serve God and the express company at the same time. They gave him his choice and to their amazement he chose the express company. They say they have not one word of criticism to offer against him except that as to his choice, which they believe to have been unwise.

Rev. McDowell said his wife and six children rejoiced with him in his change of life plans.

DISCIPLINE FOR CROWN PRINCE

Kaiser's Heir Sent for Sail in Zeppelin Balloon.

APPLAUDS LIBERAL SPEECHES

German Newspapers Declare the Heir to the Throne Should Have Upheld Policy of Emperor As to Morocco.

Berlin, Nov. 11.—Crown Prince Frederick William's attitude during the debate in the reichstag, when he openly denounced his pleasure over and approval of the criticisms of Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's policy in the Moroccan affair with France and applauded the safety-rattling passages in the fiery speeches, is sharply condemned by not only the friends but the opponents of the chancellor.

The Berliner Tageblatt, the Vossische Zeitung, the Vorwaerts, the Cologne Gazette and the Frankfurter Zeitung join in describing the incident as a frivolous and dangerous exhibition.

The papers see an occasion for serious concern when the heir to the throne so demonstratively shows his discontent with the policy of the emperor and his responsible advisers and express the fear that the impression has been given abroad that the future emperor is heading a German war party.

The Vossische Zeitung wonders why Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg, the chancellor, listened in vain for a word of approval, while from the royal box sounded applause for the scathing discent of Baron von Hertling, the clerical; Herr von Heydebrand, the conservative leader, and Herr Bebel, the head of the Socialist party.

If there is any "war lord" to be done by the German imperial family, the Kaiser will do it himself. Crown Prince Frederick William has been figuratively spanked and sent off for a ballooning cruise.

The display of Hohenzollern parental wrath is hidden behind the veil of court etiquette, but enough of the family tilt is known to cause a smile in political circles of the capital.

Frederick William did not appear at the session of the reichstag, but instead cruised in Count Zeppelin's dirigible, Schwaben I.

DIXON PARTY IS ENJOYING ALABAMA

REPORT VERY FINE WEATHER IN THE STATE BY THE GULF.

Hotel Chunchula, Chunchula, Ala., Nov. 8. Dixon Telegraph:

Several of my friends said they wished to hear from me, so will write them a line through the Telegraph. Our trip down was a short and pleasant one. We met three others of our party from Hammond, Ind., at Cairo, so there are six of us here now and others are expected.

The weather is everything to be desired; if anything, it is too warm. We have had only one rain since we came here. When the sun is shining we sit or walk out doors without any wraps in perfect comfort. Last week Thursday when you were having the first snow storm, we did not have the sun and it was cool and damp, but with a fire in the house we had the doors open all day. It is too warm in the house if you shut the doors, but without the fire in the house it is cooler in the house than out of doors.

Our small town of Chunchula is in the pine woods and considered a very healthy place and there have been many wonderful cures here—just living close to nature, hunting, fishing and living out of doors.

There is plenty of room here for all who care to come down and enjoy the freedom that half camping affords, and we can go to Mobile twice a day with good train service, so we are not out of reach of the necessities of life, and anyone can find all the pleasures, too, if they have a mind to pay for them.

We have a small union church here and a good Sunday school. It is surprising the amount of freight that is received here, almost every day a car load of settlers' goods arrives. Everybody seems to get their goods but us and we are still living out of our trunks, so it is quite like camping. But this is camping weather; children are running around barefooted and every day we have sent us a big bunch of roses that would be $1.50 in Dixon. This leaves us well and enjoying splendid weather.

DRAINAGE DITCH NEEDS ATTENTION

WHERE IT CROSSES HENNEPIN AVENUE CONDITION VERY UNSANITARY

The attention of the Telegraph has been called to the condition of the drainage ditch, where it crosses Hennepin avenue between Third and Fifth streets, and investigation proves it to be in a foul, odorous and unhealthy state, as the result of being used as a dumping ground.

Residents of those streets are complaining and the proper officers should take notice and have the ditch cleaned out, and also order those who are using the ditch as a cesspool to quit.

THE REV. IRL R. HICKS ALMANAC.

Before the great drouth of 1901, Hicks Almanac gave timely warning. For over two years prior to 1911 the Hicks almanac again sounded a warning of drouth danger. And so for forty years this same friend of all the people has steadfastly refused the offers of speculators and continued to warn the public of the coming dangers of storm and wether. As they should have done, the people have nobly stood by Professor Hicks their faithful public servant, who has grown old in their service. Send only one dollar to Word and Works Publishing Company, 3401 Franklin Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri, and get his Magazine and Almanac both for one year. The Almanac alone, a fine book of 150 pages, is only 35¢ by mail. Let everybody respond and receive the warnings of our National See for the coming year.

America to Have Four Cardinals

Only Four Countries, Italy, France, Austria-Hungary and Spain, Have More.

Fourteen Million Catholics In America Pleased With the Signal Recognition.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.
OUR American cardinals—that is welcome news to the more than 14,000,000 Catholics in America, which number is swelled to several millions more if the Philippines, Guam and Porto Rico are included. The college of cardinals is supposed to consist of seventy, although the quota is seldom or never complete. At one time it was as low as seven. Seventeen new cardinals will be elevated at the coming consistory on Nov. 27, making sixty-three in all. It is reported that thirty-two members of the college will then be Italians and thirty-one foreigners. This is the highest ratio of foreigners known in recent times and in the opinion of some may mean the election of a pope outside of Italy. It is even possible that the number of foreign cardinals may equal the Italians, as there is a prospect of another Spaniard being elevated. This would make the selection of an outside pope still more probable, and, strangely enough, there is talk that an American may be chosen. In recent times all the popes have been elected from Italy.

The manner in which the "foreigners," as those outside of Italy are called, are being favored may be judged by the fact that of the seventeen new cardinals only five are from Italy. The one other nation whose apportionment of new cardinals exceeds that of America is France, which has four. The three Americans are Mgr. Diomedeo Falconio, papal delegate to Washington, who is a naturalized citizen of the United States; Archbishop John M. Farley of New York and Archbishop William H. O'Connell of Boston. These, with Cardinal James Gibbons of Baltimore, make up the four, which number exceeds all the cardinals given to the North American continent heretofore. Indeed, the only Americans so honored, so far as I can find a record, were the late Cardinal E. A. Tacheau of Canada and the late Cardinal John McCloskey of New York.

Elect the Pope.

The cardinals are called the princes of the church. Their rank is next to that of the pope himself. During the interval between the death of one pope and the selection of his successor they govern the church and share in the government even while the pope is in office. In addition to this they hold various important offices, such as vice chancellor, dean of the sacred college, secretary of state, vicar general, patriarch and archbishop. Many of them must remain at Rome as administrative officers. Others are the heads of various important dioceses throughout the world. The college of cardinals elects the pope, almost invariably from its own membership. Well informed Catholics do not generally believe that a pope will be chosen outside of Italy, at least for many years.

The cardinals are divided into three ranks. The highest are the cardinal bishops. Of these there are only six, all now Italians. They are Agilardi, Casotta, Oreglia, Satoli and the two brothers, Vannutelli. Satoli was at one time papal delegate to Washington, and one of the Vannutellis was in this country a year or more ago. The second rank is that of cardinal priests, to which the great bulk of cardinals belongs. The third is that of cardinal deacons, of whom there may be fourteen, but are only five now. In the whole college as at present constituted the Italians outnumber all others. There are five from Spain, three each from France and Austria, two each from Germany, Ireland and Hungary and one each from America, Belgium, Portugal and Bohemia. Under the new apportionment the only countries that will exceed America in the number of cardinals are Italy, France, Spain and Austria-Hungary.

The Archbishop of New York.

The high dignity to which these Americans have been elevated has belonged to such statesmen and scholars as Richelieu and Mazarin, Wolsey and Newman. It is a strange coincidence that two of the new American cardinals were born in the same year, 1812. Archbishop Farley in Ireland and Mgr. Falconio in Italy. The other two American cardinals, Gibbons and O'Connell, were born in the United States.

Archbishop Farley was at one time secretary to Cardinal McCloskey and is the fourth archbishop of New York. In which capacity he heads probably the largest and assuredly the richest Catholic diocese in the world, having under him more than 1,300,000 communicants. He was educated in Macartney's college, Ireland, until he was seventeen years old, when he came to America with his parents. He then entered the Jesuit College of St. John's in what is now Fordham university, later studied at St. Joseph's seminary at Troy and, attracting the attention of Cardinal McCloskey, was by him sent to Rome, where he completed his theological studies in a four years' course.

After being ordained a priest at Rome in 1873 the future cardinal returned to New York and was placed in charge of a church on Staten Island. Here he made such progress that in two years he was appointed to the responsible position of private secretary to John McCloskey, America's first cardinal. The experience was invaluable. It brought the young priest in contact with the leading men of the church and gave him an experience in administrative work in the very diocese over which he himself should later preside. At one time he accompanied Cardinal McCloskey to Rome and so favorably impressed Leo XIII. that the pontiff appointed Father Farley one of his private chamberlains and gave him the title of monsignor. While still private secretary he was made pastor of a church and so endeared himself to his own people and to the public at large that the reporters called him "Little Farley." He was also offered the position of rector of the American college at Rome, but Cardinal McCloskey would not let him accept.

Father Farley remained secretary to the cardinal fourteen years, when it was ended by McCloskey's death. Under Archbishop Corrigan he was successively appointed missionary rector, domestic prelate and protonotary apostolic, the highest office under bishop. He was next advanced to con-

where he was called on to settle a troublesome school controversy between Manhattan and Quebec. He succeeded so well that in 1902 he was promoted to papal delegate at Washington, in which position he had an important part in settling the friars' land disputes in the Philippines.

Great Church Orator.

Archbishop William H. O'Connell of Boston is the youngest of the cardinals designate and will be one of the youngest in the college. His rise has been rapid, and he is considered one of the most eloquent pastors in his church in America. As archbishop of Boston he heads the second diocese for size in the United States.

Archbishop O'Connell was born in Lowell, Mass., in 1859 and was educated at Boston college and at Rome. He was ordained in 1884 and became prefect in the American college in Rome. Later he returned to America and after ten years here was chosen rector or president of the same great institution. His selection was said to have been due to the pleasant impression he made on Cardinal Gibbons. He was made a bishop while in Rome and was placed at the head of the Portland (Me.) diocese. At the close of the war between Japan and Russia he was selected by the pope for an important mission in Japan, due to the fact, it was said, that he was the only high church dignitary speaking Japanese. While in the Flowery Kingdom he was accorded the distinction of being for one day the guest of the emperor. He was successful in this mission, gaining the especial gratitude of the pope. He was made archbishop of Boston in 1907.

The signal recognition of America, one practically without a parallel in the modern history of the church, is especially gratifying to Cardinal Gib-

tor bishop, which office he held seven years, when, at Archbishop Corrigan's death, in 1902, he became head of the diocese in which he had so long served.

American Papal Delegate.

One circumstance indicating the importance of the United States in the pontiff's mind is that every delegate to this country either was a cardinal when he came or was made one at the end of his service. Satoli is now a cardinal bishop, Martinelli was made a cardinal at the end of his term at Washington, and Falconio, who succeeded Martinelli, is now being made a cardinal.

Mgr. Falconio was born in the Abruzzi and entered the Franciscan order at the age of eighteen. Shortly afterward he was sent to the United States as a missionary and was located at Allegany, N. Y., being ordained in 1886 by the bishop of Buffalo. He was so impressed with the field for work in this country that he asked permission to become an American citizen. This was granted, and he voted for General Grant for president in 1872. After many years at Allegany, Buffalo and Niagara he became rector of the cathedral in Newfoundland. At the end of twenty years in this country he was recalled to Italy, where in 1889 he was chosen procurator general of the Franciscan order, later bishop of Lacedonia and still later archbishop of Acerenza.

In 1889 Mgr. Falconio succeeded Cardinal Merry del Val, now secretary of state, as papal delegate to Canada, bons, to whose efforts it is at least partially due. It is said in Rome that the first pilgrimage the present pope received was an American pilgrimage and that the first flags waved in St. Peter's for his election and the first he blessed were American. He thereupon promised Cardinal Gibbons that he would appoint several American cardinals. It is generally believed that in the not distant future the western part of the United States will be recognized, and both Archbishop Quigley of Chicago and Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul have been mentioned. The friends of Ireland have long made a campaign in his favor, the Bellamy Storer and the "Dear Maria" letters figuring in the affair.

Cardinal James Gibbons, the foremost Catholic in the western hemisphere, was born in Baltimore in 1834. He was educated in Ireland, at New Orleans and at St. Charles college, in Maryland, finishing his theological course in Baltimore. After being ordained he had one or two small churches, when he was made secretary to Archbishop Spalding. Two of his most notable accomplishments concerned his work in building up the Catholic cause in North Carolina and afterward in Virginia, founding not only many churches, but schools and charitable institutions. He then became archbishop of Baltimore, headed the delegation of American prelates to Rome in 1883 and was made cardinal three years later.

PLAYS WAITING GAME

Gov. Deneen Believed to Aspire to U. S. Senate.

Awaits Committee's Decision on Lorimer Case, Before Announcing Any of His Plans.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 11.—Governor Deneen will not try for a third term as governor, in the opinion of a majority of politicians now gathered in Springfield. Instead, he will wait until the United States senate takes action in the Lorimer case. He will become a candidate for the senate in case such action creates a vacancy.

The word has been passed around that the senate will make up its mind about the junior senator in time to permit a popular vote in the primary on his successor in the event of his removal. A final decision is expected in January.

The governor has not intimated to anyone whether he will run for governor or senator. He says he is not yet ready to decide. His friends, however, are predicting that the senatorship will be his goal.

Three months ago there was keen interest in what he would do. Other aspirants were waiting on his announcement before they made up their minds. Growing impatient at his silence Senator Jones came out as progressive Republican candidate for governor.

Then Richard Yates, Len Small and John E. Wayman launched gubernatorial booms, taking advantage of the state fair roundup. It was rumored that Mr. Deneen had senatorial ambitions. State Senator Magill waited several weeks, but he grew tired of delay and announced his candidacy.

Former Lieutenant Governor Sherman's entrance into the governorship race is expected within a week. He thinks that in a field of a dozen candidates he can win. His oratorical ability and habit of speaking his mind in unmistakable terms will add interest to the campaign.

DOUGHERTY SET FREE

Former Peoria Superintendent of Schools Paroled.

Was Committed to Joliet Penitentiary Six Years Ago for Embezzling $750,000 School Funds.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 11.—Newton C. Dougherty, convicted of embezzling approximately a million dollars of the funds of the Peoria public schools in the twenty-five years he was superintendent of schools, and sent to Joliet six years ago for an indeterminate term, has been paroled by the state board of pardons by a bare majority vote.

The board declines to give the name of the member who voted against the parole and also declines to state to whom Dougherty was paroled. The appeal for parole was made some time ago, and the board has had the case under advisement.

Dougherty, who was a former banker and superintendent of schools in Peoria, was committed to the penitentiary Nov. 25, 1905, after having pleaded guilty to forgery and embezzlement of school funds to the amount of $750,000.

5,638,591 FOLKS IN ILLINOIS

Of People in State 58.8 Per Cent Live in Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Chicago, the only city in Illinois with over 100,000 population, is shown by statistics obtained at the census bureau to contain 38.8 per cent of the total population of the state in 1910. The proportion of the population of the state in the groups of the smaller urban places changed but little during the decade.

The urban population of Illinois, amounting to 3,476,939 inhabitants, 61.7 per cent of the total population, is contained in 242 cities, 51 towns and 771 villages. Of the total population, 38.3 per cent is classed as rural, 12 per cent being contained in 920 incorporated places of less than 2,500 inhabitants each and 26.4 per cent in unincorporated communities.

The population of Illinois is 5,638,591 and represents an increase during the last decade of $17,041, or 16.9 per cent, the smallest relative increase shown at any census.

During the same period the total population of continental United States increased 21 per cent.

Of the cities of over 2,500 population East St. Louis shows the highest per cent of increase during the last decade, namely, 97.4 per cent, and Quincy the lowest, nine-tenths of 1 per cent.

FIGHT WITH ROBBERS

Men Escape with $400 in Running Battle at Decatur, Ill.

Decatur, Ill., Nov. 11.—After a running fight in Main street two masked men who held up and robbed A. A. Mosher's meat market of $400 escaped.

J. W. Seifert, a merchant next door to Mosher's saw the men escaping with a cash drawer and pursued them with a shotgun. The men shot their revolvers at him but did not hit him.

WILL INSPECT MAINE WRECK

Board of Five Army and Navy Officers Appointed.

HEADED BY ADMIRAL VREELAND

Members of Board Leave Washington Today and Expect to Reach Havana Early Next Week—Wreck to Be Removed.

Washington, Nov. 11.—To inspect the wreck of the battleship Maine and report all possible data which it can gather, including the cause of the destruction of the vessel, a board of five army and navy officers was appointed to proceed to Havana.

The members of the board are Rear Admiral Charles E. Vreeland, Chief Constructor Richard M. Watt, Colonel William Black, engineer corps; Commander Charles F. Hughes, of the board of inspection and survey, and Commander Joseph Strauss, on duty in the office of the aid for material. The members of the board will leave Washington today and expect to arrive in Havana early next week. The work of examining the wreck of the Maine will probably take several days. This will be the second formal investigation of the cause of the wreck of the Maine.

In accordance with legislation passed several years ago about half a million dollars has already been spent in raising the Maine. A large coffer dam has been constructed around the vessel and the mud cleared away. For the last few weeks no work has been done as the hurricane season was threatening. All danger of an accident of this sort is now over and the army engineers are ready to remove all the water from the coffer dam and disclose the bulk of the Maine for the investigation of the board.

After the board completes its investigation, the army engineers will lose no time in complying with the law of congress, which provides for the removal of the hulk from Havana harbor. The after part of the ship, according to reports received here, can be floated and a bulkhead will be built so that this section can be raised and floated out to sea, where it will be sunk in deep water. The boat will have to be cut in sections and placed on scows and disposed of in the same manner.

The remains of more than fifty victims of the disaster have been recovered and will be buried in the Arlington National cemetery. The main mast of the vessel will be erected over their graves as a memorial.

TRY TO RETAKE TOWN

Turkish and Arab Force Attacks Italian Lines.

Latter, Assisted by Warships and Aeroplanes, Repulse Enemy from Tripoli.

Rome, Nov. 11.—Dispatches received here from Tripoli say that the first engagement of importance since Oct. 26 has been fought. In honor of the Mohammedan festival, a combined Turkish and Arab force, which apparently tried to capture the town, did not succeed.

The attack began to the eastward lines and developed all along the lines. The enemy in great strength, supported by artillery, attacked with great bravery and determination, but was unable to withstand the combined firing of the artillery and the warships which poured shells into them.

The aeroplanes greatly assisted in the fighting for eight hours. The enemy was repulsed about midday.

The admiralty has sent fast passenger steamers plying between Naples and Sicily to act as auxiliary cruisers at Tripoli.

MOB WANTS ASSAULT

Surrounds Jail in Which Negro Wretch Is Confined.

Meyersdale, Pa., Nov. 11.—Clamoring for the life of Isaiah Dorman, twenty-two-year-old negro, who is alleged to have attacked Ethel Morgan, a nine-year-old white child, a frenzied mob surrounded the borough lock-up. Dorman was captured by the police after a chase in which citizens and bloodhounds participated.

Chief of Police David Cramer and the entire police force are inside the jail hoping that the crowd will disperse and permit them to take Dorman to Somerset.

J. Pierpont Dodges But He Is Too Late

J. Pierpont Morgan.

This, the latest photograph of the money king, was taken as he was about to step into the launch to take him out to his yacht, the Corsair. He had just sighted the photographer
aiming the camera at him and started
to "duck" his head, to spoil the picture, but he was unsuccessful, as can be seen by the circumstantial evidence of the picture itself.

Fair—But False

It was his first visit to New York
and some of the sights filled him
with wonder, while others filled him with awe. But when he went to the theater he settled quietly down for enjoyment, pure and simple.

Presently he observed that a long,
fair, silken tress was hanging down
the back of the lady in front of him.
"Excuse me, miss," he said, leaning over, "but your hair is coming down."

Slowly she turned upon him a cold
and haughty stare.
"My hair!" she said, in tones of ice
and acid-drip.

But the country visitor was not to be snubbed so easily.
"Oh, I'm sorry!" he said, cheerfully.
"But really at first, you know, I thought it was your hair!"

Sympathized With Him.

This is a story of the Harvard
"Gold Coast." Some students who had either a real or imaginary grievance against a taxicab chauffeur
boarded his cab and rode all evening,
and part of the morning, winding up in front of the halls. They excused themselves to raise enough to pay the bill and never came back. The next day the taxicab company was called up and the manager
asked, "Did you have some Harvard
students use a cab all night?"

"Yes."
"Did the chauffeur wait for four hours for them to come out and pay him?"

"Yes."
"And you were never paid?"
"No."
"Well," concluded the voice, "isn't that too bad," and the receiver
was hung up.—Boston Record.

Friendship

So for the last time let our hands embrace,
And let us, with love's wordless eloquence

Saying farewell, recapture that dear
sorrow
Of our two spirits standing face to face.

For O, my Friend, there is but little space
For thought's debate when we have
sailed hence;

No truce to ease us of our own defense
Is sounded o'er the loud world's battle-place.

I shall not turn to seek thee in the throne
Of strenuous conflict, being armed
with thee;

All that thou art, courageous, pure
and strong,
Is by our love become a part of me.
Let us unbound to our true selves belong.

Not one, but two brave souls for God
to see.

NO OTHER WAY.

"Where did your wife spend the summer?"
"Abroad."
"And how about yourself?"
"Went into bankruptcy."

POLICE TEACH NEW YORK MEN TO BE POLITE

Women and Children Given Preference on Bridge Cars.

NEW YORK. —Father Knicker-
bocker is going to have more polite
male citizens if he has to use a club.
The fact that a "real" New Yorker never gives up his seat in a car to a woman, is proverbial with visitors in the metropolis so Father Knicker-bocker's strong-arm lessons in courtesy begin right here.

Police have placed in operation a new system of loading trolley cars at the Manhattan end of the Brooklyn Bridge during the rush hours, and already the Brooklyn portion of the male population is well advanced in its politeness course. This is one of the most congested points in the entire city and under the old order the crush was so great that not infrequently women and children fainted
in the jam. Now men and women are corralled in separate parts of the terminal and the women and children are given twenty-five seconds in which to board cars. Husky bluecoats and plenty of them are nightly on duty at the "corrals" and until that 25 seconds
is up nary a man dare put a foot on the car. At the expiration of that period, if there are any seats left, the men are at liberty to take them.

The first night the new system was tried an unusually sharp thunder storm drenched the city just as the rush began and some of the men got a ducking because of the new arrangement. That and the fact that many of them didn't get seats for the first time in years proved quite "go-getter," but this didn't interfere with the success of the new system and since then the men are highly elated
over the enforced politeness and its results. There is some talk of extending the system to other congested points on the traction lines. By the time the subway gang has been reformed New York won't seem like the same old place.

GIRLS AS THEY WERE.

Backward, turn backward, O Time
in your flight, and give us a maiden dressed proper and right. We are so weary of switches and rats, Billie Burke clusters and peach-basket
hats. Wads of jute hair in a horrible pile, stacked on the girls' heads to the height of a mile. Something is wrong with the maidens, we fear.
Give us the girls as they used to appear. Give us the girls who once knew of yore, whose curls didn't come from a hair-dressing store.
Maidens who dressed with a sensible view. And just as Dame Nature intended them to. Give us a girl with a figure her own and fashioned divinely by Nature alone. Feminine style's getting fiercer each year—oh,
give us the girls as they used to appear.—From the Sterling, Kan., Journal.

The Auction Fiend.

Bildad is as confirmed an auction
fiend as Mrs. Toole's of historic memory. Strong in resistance to all other lures, he seems utterly unable to withstand the temptations of the hammer and the block. It is probably true, as his friend Dobbiegh has said, that in the days to come Bildad will stop his own funeral procession to go in and bid on some article for which neither he nor Mrs. Bildad has any use, if perchance the cortege passes a red flag on the way to the cemetery. However this may be, what is true is that while dozing in church last Sunday morning Bildad was suddenly aroused
by the minister's announcement of the hymn.

"We will continue our service by singing the three hundred and seventy-fifth hymn," said the clergyman.
Hymn number three-seventy-five!
"Four dollars!" roared Bildad, still lingering on the borderland between the province of dreams and the land of reality.—Harper's Weekly.

It Got Monotonous.

A yellow negro out in Kansas City
decided that by barbering in the day time and fighting at night he could easily attain to great wealth. His first essay in pugilism was against a shifty black with a good ring record. At the tap of the bell the black professional planted a straight left on the amate-
ur's nose, and repeated the process
some hundred times. By a superhuman effort the yellow barber came to a clinch, and his voice rang high in agonized protest:

"Scattah yo' blows, nigga!" he demanded. "For Gawd's sake, scattah
yo' blows."

WHY SO WEAK?

KIDNEY TROUBLES MAY BE SAMP-
ING YOUR LIFE AWAY. DIXON
PEOPLE HAVE LEARNED
THIS FACT

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent
cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache,
dizzy spells and urinary disorders,
look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills make sick kidneys well.
Here is Dixon testimony to prove it.

Mrs. William Toot, 512 W. Second St., Dixon, Ill., says: "I suffered for years from kidney complaint and my back ached persistently. I was so weak at times that I could not attend to my housework
and nothing did me any good. Finally, I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Leake Bros. Co's Drug store, and they cured me. I feel that my experience should convince the most skeptical person of the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills. I know of a number of other people who have taken this remedy with great benefit."
(Statement given February 5, 1907.)

RE-ENDORSEMENT

Mrs. Toot was interviewed on January 5, 1910, and she added to the above: "I have no hesitation in verifying my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills. During the time that has elapsed, I have taken this remedy occasionally and it has always brought prompt and effective relief."

PRESIDENT ENDS EXTENDED TOUR

Longest Trip Ever Made by a Head of the Nation.

A DAY ABOUT CHATTANOOGA

Shown About Battlefield of Missionary Ridge by General Charles H. Grosvenor, Chickamauga National Commissioner.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 11.—An audience in Chattanooga and another in Rossville, Ga., were told by President Taft that he did not consider them "past redemption" politically.

To the Chattanooga audience he said, referring to his former visit here while a candidate for the presidency: "When I was a Republican candidate for the presidency it was my pleasure to visit Chattanooga, not because I thought I could control the electoral vote, but because I did not think Chattanooga past redemption." At Rossville he spoke on the tariff.

The president spent the day in the Cumberland hill country of eastern Tennessee. In the afternoon Mr. Taft visited Chickamauga battlefield. From Chattanooga the president was driven over Missionary Ridge, where for three days the forces of General Bragg fought to hold their position against Grant's men.

General Charles H. Grosvenor, now commissioner of the Chickamauga National park and a veteran of that battle, rode with the president and explained to him the course of the armies in the battle. The president left his machine to walk around Snodgrass Hill, where General Grosvenor, then a lieutenant colonel of the Eighteenth Ohio volunteers, held his forces from noon until dark while the Confederates of Longstreet's division made seventeen assaults upon his line.

A short distance from Snodgrass Hill is Kelly field and there the father of Secretary Hilles, a captain in an Ohio volunteer regiment, was wounded and carried home to die. General Grosvenor told the president and Mr. Hilles of all the details of the fighting at that point.

In the evening the president addressed a public audience in Chattanooga upon peace. He left for his train early. Today is the last day of President Taft's trip. He is visiting Knoxville and Bristol, Tenn., leaving for Washington tonight and arriving in the capital early Sunday morning, having completed the longest trip ever taken by a president of the United States.

OKLAHOMA AERONAUT KILLED

Parachute Bar Breaks and He Is Driven into Ground.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 11.—Samuel Heller, aged thirty-four, an experienced aeronaut, was killed while making an ascension at Perkins, in Payne county. When his balloon was fully 3,000 feet high Heller cut loose the parachute, but the sudden jerk broke the brass bar to which he was holding.

He grasped the broken bars safely, however, until with less than 100 feet of the ground. He was then seen to lose his grip and shoot downward, landing on his feet. His bones sank into the ground stripped of their flesh. He died a few hours later.

BEEF TRUST INVESTIGATION

United States Looking for Violations of Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 11.—The beef trust is to undergo another investigation at the hands of the United States government, and Judge K. M. Landis of the Illinois district court at Chicago will have charge of the grand jury which will conduct the examination. It is said in Omaha that this investigation will be along the lines of violations of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The United States marshal served notice on the officials of every railroad running into Omaha to appear as witnesses before the federal grand jury which meets in Chicago Nov. 16.

NILES TO DECIDE ON KIMMEL

Twenty Citizens Will Make Depositions on "Man of Mystery."

Niles, Mich., Nov. 11.—The depositions of at least twenty-eight Niles citizens will be taken in this city next week, beginning Monday, regarding their knowledge of the Kimmel case, but more particularly of the man Niles who claims to be George A. Kimmel, the long-lost banker.

"Kimmel, the man of mystery," left the city a week ago on a mysterious mission into Indiana, and it is rumored that he is hunting for a nurse who had charge of him while he was in a hospital and was expected to die.

Star Pitcher Operated Upon.

Philadelphia, Nov. 11.—John Coombs, who injured himself in the eleven inning world's series game played in New York, which the Giants won after a great uphill fight, was operated upon here at the University hospital for hernia. There is much doubt if he ever will be able to pitch again.
